WILSON FUND CERTAIN ON 66TH BIRTHDAY

Delegation Calls to Inform Former President Amount Has Reached $800,000

Washington, Dec. 29.—Friends of Woodrow Wilson who are raising a $1,000,000 fund for the perpetuation of his ideals, celebrated his 66th birthday yesterday by sending him word, through a delegation which called at his S Street home, that the success of their movement was assured.

At the same time the senate adopted a resolution on offered by Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, expressing "pleasure and joy" at his recovery toward health. The resolution was put through quickly with a chorus of eyes from the Democratic side of the chamber, many of the Republican senators engrossed in other matters smilingly paying not attention to its import.

The former President spent his birthday quietly. For no hour or more a group of men and women stood in the rain in front of his home, hoping that he might appear to greet them, but all they saw of the war time president, was a glimpse of him as he drove off in his limousine, late in the day, for during the day messages of felicitation came to Mr. Wilson from all parts of the world. A few close friends called to extend greetings, the delegation representing the Woodrow Wilson foundation arriving at 3 o'clock for a forty minute visit. In the group were Hamilton Holt and Mrs. Charles E. Simonson, of New York City, Mrs. J. Malcolm Forbes of Boston and Miss Caroline Rutledge, of Greenwich, Conn., all members of the foundation's executive committee.

The delegation told Mr. Wilson that contributions to the fund already had passed $800,000 and would in the near future undoubtedly reach the $1,000,000 goal. The former president was reported to have expressed satisfaction over the success of the movement and its purposes.

Those in the delegation declined to discuss the nature of the conversation with Mr. Wilson aside from saying that they had chatted informally on a number of topics. He was in excellent spirit, they said, and apparently was in better health than at any time since he was stricken with illness. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Margaret Wilson, the former president's daughter, joined him in receiving the visitors in the library.

An engrossed copy of the resolution adopted by the Senate was sent to Mr. Wilson by Vice President Coolidge with the following letter of felicitation.

"My dear Mr. Wilson:
"It gives me great pleasure to be the medium of transmitting the enclosed resolution to you. It was unanimously adopted. To it I wish to add my own felicitations on your recovering good health and my congratulations on the return of another anniversary to your natal day.
"With the greetings of the season, I am,
"Cord ally yours,

Fred C. Martin was elected chairman of the committee and he appointed the other members including: Hon. Edward Griffith and V. H. Shaw of Manchester, Patrick H. Thompson of Arlington and Edward C. Bennett, C. M. Graves and Frank E. Howe of Bennington.

The gathering enjoyed as one feature of the meeting a "poem" read by one of the out of town visitors as follows:

lowe:
The roads of Vermont are somewhat of a problem:
What suits the tin Lizzie is bad for old Dobbin.
And Reuben Corn Tassel living in Goshen,
Wishes the city man drowned in the ocean.
But the Doc who drove Dobbin and cared for our ills
Now uses tin Lizzie to peddle his pills;
And Hiram who used to court Maude with a buggy
Drives up in a Buick and tucks her in snugly;
And old Uncle Eben who lives on the hill
Purchased an auto to give him a thrill.
The merchant who formerly drove a fine pair
Uses fifty horse power to go to the fair.
The tourist proceeds enveloped in dust.
Believe me, the Highway Commission is cursed.
The lawmakers think it exceedingly funny
Hard surfaced roads cost so much money;
And earnestly hope to find one who can
Build a road cheap, a road that will stand
Under traffic too heavy for gravel or sand.
Lower in cost than the hard surface brand
And the Highway Commissioner puzzles his brain
Over washboarded roads due to absence of rain.
Conditions are changing and roads must change too.
It's a hell of a problem to know what to do.

Of the county delegation, to the coming legislature both senators and 12 representatives were present and were glad of the opportunity to get together and hear one of the problems discussed in which the county is interested.

An attempt to discuss the issue of bonding the state to build roads was ruled out because it would take too much time in addition to what the meeting was called to consider.

SUPREME COURT LOSES THREE JUDGES IN 1922
Disposed of 800 Cases of the Thousand Brought Before It During Year

The United States supreme court lost three of its members during the last year, but none as the result of the toll of time.

Associate Justices Clarke and Day resigned to enter upon other duties, and Associate Justice Pitney, suffering from ill health, elected to be retired.

The call of the League of Nations cause proved more attractive to Justice Clarke than his exalted position on the United States supreme court and he resigned to devote his time to its promotion.

Associate Justice Day was appointed by President Harding the umpire of the American football claims commission, the duties of which Mr. Day considered sufficiently onerous and engrossing, and he left the supreme bench.

Filling two of the vacancies created by the resignations, President Harding appointed George Sutherland of Utah, and Pierce Butler, of Minnesota. A third position on the bench remains to be filled, with a wide field from which to make selection.

During the year the supreme court had before it nearly 1000 cases on appeals from decisions in lower courts, original actions brought to the court direct and petitions seeking review of decisions made in federal and state courts. Of these it disposed of over 800, the other cases running into the coming year. The term of the court extends from October to June.

Outstanding among the many decisions rendered by the supreme court was one requiring a dissolution of the Southern & Central Pacific Railroad companies and another declaring labor organizations liable under the antitrust laws for damages to properties as a result of strikes declared by labor organizations.

Mighty fights had been waged in the lower courts over these two cases, the government leading in its efforts to force a dissolution of the two great railroads and labor having been penalized for treble damage in Arkansas federal courts. By the supreme court decisions the government came out victor in its railroad fight but labor suffered a severe blow when the decision of the lower court was sustained.

In various opinions the court decided that the contracts used by the United States Machinery corporation in protecting its patented steam-making machines were illegal, that the woman suffrage amendment was constitutional, that the government had power to authorize the Interstate Commerce commission to increase the interstate and intrastate railroad rates and fares and that the United States Steel corporation was not a monopoly in restraint of commerce, as prohibited by the anti-trust laws.

The supreme court upheld the validity of the Kansas Industrial court law and affirmed conviction under it Alexander Howat, prominent labor leader, for contempt in refusing to obey orders issued from it and from federal courts to which appeals were taken.

New York state lost through an opinion by the court its fight to enforce orders directed against various gas companies doing business in New York city and surrounding communities requiring them to charge a lower price for service.

Various housing laws of the federal government and of the state of New York continued after the war period to prevent alleged profiteering were sustained in their validity by the United States supreme court.

Many cases attacking the validity of the Volstead prohibition law and constitutionality of the prohibition amendment were disposed of by the court, all decisions sustaining the law and the amendment.

In the long-standing contest between the states of Texas and Oklahoma as to the ownership of Red River, valuable for oil discoveries, the court decided that the Red River within Oklahoma is un navigable and Oklahoma has no claim to it.

YANKEES TO INVADE VIRGIN TERRITORY

Huggins Troupe Will Appear in Oklahoma and Missouri on Spring Jaunt

Babe Ruth's three-ringed traveling circus, with the Yankees and Robins playing the minor roles, will invade virgin territory next Spring, judging from the Yank's Spring exhibition schedule. Learning that the Bambino had never set his spikes in the primordial soil of Oklahoma and certain parts of Missouri, the Yank's promptly decided to try a new route back to New York. They believe that many shokels are waiting to be captured in that part of the great Southwest and they are not a bit averse to making the venture.

So the Yanks will abandon the Arkansas-Tennessee-Virginia circuit and follow Horace Greeley's advice about going westward. Leaving New Orleans on April 1—April Fool Day—they will strike forth for new towns in Mississippi then swing back again into Louisiana. After playing the old familiar one-night stands in Dallas and Fort Worth, which are too big to be overlooked, the Huggins troupe will go to Oklahoma City, Tulsa and Muskogee. Then comes a jump to Springfield, Mo., and two days later they will be in New York.

The tour through Oklahoma appears to be the big feature of the 1922 schedule. It will be the first time in years that the Yanks have appeared in that state.

At Muskogee the Yanks and Robins on April 11 will help to dedicate a magnificent new ball park which has been christened Landis Field, after the Commissioner of baseball. It will be a memorable day for Muskogee, but no more memorable than for other towns on the list.

Only three cities on the 1922 schedule have been retained. These are Shreveport, La., and Dallas and Fort Worth, Meridian, Miss., is new, and so are Jackson and Vicksburg, in the same state and Monroe, in Louisiana.

The schedule is one of the most attractive that the Yanks have ever arranged. They will appear in five states and spend not more than one day in any one city, which means many jumps in Pullman sleepers. The long set leap will be from Springfield to New York. If the train is on time the two teams will reach New York at 1 P. M. on April 11, and they are scheduled to play at Ebbets Field two and a half hours later. If the train is not on time—well, the game will have to wait.

THE WORRY CURE.

Chronic Worriers Should Join in the Work and Fun of the World.

A man with money, leisure and health was on his way to an ocean bathing beach to have a swim. The car wasn't working properly, so he developed considerable ill temper that lasted until he reached the beach. There he found 75 crippled children who had been taken for an outing. He described them thus:

"They were in bathing suits. Some could only get around by crawling on their hands and knees. Three young girls, with soft, sweet faces, pulled themselves along the sand with their hands. One little colored child hopped along like a toad. They were all laughing and having a good time. We watched them for a while and then joined in the fun."

Not everyone who indulges himself in needless worry and helpful ill temper, is granted such a striking picture with which to compare his own trou-
